ROME, June 20.—Failure of General Franco so far to crush the Spanish government today brought a reply from Minister Galeazzo Ciano and the Earl of Perth, British ambassador at Rome, together for the second successive day to consider the implications of the situation in respect to the Anglo-Italian pact.

The accord does not come into effect until Italian troops are withdrawn from Spain, presumably after the end of the war. Prolongation of the war has held this up.

British Policy
Still Unchanged

LONDON, June 20.—British policy on Spain remains unchanged. There must be a settlement of the Spanish question before the Anglo-Italian agreement can be regarded as coming into full effect.

When the Anglo-Italian agreement was concluded, it was assumed that the Spanish war would be over in a couple of months. The British government, however, developed unexpected resistance. There is now talk that unless the reinforcements General Franco is unlikely to win before next spring.

Premier MacDonald, realizing a rapid victory for General Franco is improbable, wants the Anglo-Italian agreement declared effective, with recognition of Italy's right of attack on Ethiopia, but is waiting for a Spanish settlement.

The non-intervention committee has been asked to consider the British plan for the evacuation of Spanish volunteers. But even those close to the committee do not think the plan will result in actual withdrawal of volunteers under at least a couple of months.

ABOLITION OF
NOW APPROVED

By-Law Closes Closing Of Part Of 102 Avenue West Of 101 Street

Final legal act in the widening of 102 avenue at 101 street and removing the roadway just at that point was completed as supreme court chambers Monday morning when Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie, on the application of T. E. Garde, city solicitor, ordered that the city by-law requiring the abolition of the necessary land for this improvement be registered by the clerk of the northern Alberta Land Registration Division.

The by-law will provide for the closing of the southern portion of 102 avenue between 101 and 100 streets.

In a supporting affidavit Mr. Garde pointed out that agreement had been reached between the city and land owners in the neighborhood with the exception of the First Baptist church. Objection was being taken by church officials against the closing of 102 avenue where it abutted church property.

Garde indicated that the city council had instructed the city commissioners to deal with the church officials with a view to the settlement, failing which they were empowered to refer the question under dispute to a supreme court judge for arbitration, or to a baronet appointed by the supreme court judge to hear the dispute.

Closing of a strip of feet wide on the south side of 102 avenue is necessary due to the proposed widening of the property on the north side of the avenue 46 feet further north. This change will increase the total width of the road to 102 feet and 101 street will be possible. The widening of existing buildings on the north side of 102 avenue.

Present street property which will be closed on the south side of the avenue has been purchased by the King Edward Hotel and Imperial Oil Company Limited.

The street closing will be effective until the latter part of September.

Mr. Lawson has done himself for years.

5 Dionnes All
Mixed Up But
They Love It

NEW YORK, June 20.—Roger Perri, technician with Twentieth Century Fox, back from the nursery of the Dionne quintuplets at Callander, Ont., thinks the work of the five little sisters in their moving picture "Five of a Kind" is "colossal."

Teaching the children to sing from Parkhurst's "All mixed up" is one of the most interesting problems of the movie people who have moved in on the little northern Ontario settlement, Perri said.

"They are much too full of fun to waste time on a lyric in the classroom manner, but like all kids they are great mimics," he said. "So the studio psychologists on location first taught the song to all other members of the company."

"As they worked around the set, the staff would catch 'All Mixed Up' and then Mr. and Mrs. Annette, Cecile, Emilie and Marie were singing it."

OTTAWA, June 20.—Royal Canadian Mounted Police acted on orders from Ottawa in co-operating with city police in clearing the Vancouver post office of Johnnie Sunday, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said in a statement issued last night on his arrival from Niagara Falls, Ont.

The text of Mr. Mackenzie King's statement follows:

"On Friday last, the acting postmaster-general was authorized by the Dominion government to communicate with the mayor of Vancouver asking that the necessary steps be taken to have the post office vacated by those who were occupying it as trespassers. This decision was taken as a result of advice that the police authorities of Vancouver could not act without a formal request from the postmaster-general and further information that the continued occupation of the building was becoming a menace to public health."

SHOW PATIENCE

"The Dominion government, in common with provincial and civic authorities, have shown patience and forbearance in dealing with this situation. It had been hoped that the men involved would realize the error of proceeding as they had, and that the successful eviction would thus have been."

Royal Canadian Mounted Police from Edmonton and Stony Plain Monday were pressing a search for Mrs. E. H. Fuller, 10164 105 Street, missing since last Friday.

It was not discovered that she was missing until neighbors at the beach, police said it was possible that Mrs. Fuller may have left by train for Vancouver without notifying her on previous occasions, they said. She has two daughters living there.

Man Jumps
To His Death
In Bow River

CALGARY, June 20.—An unknown man was found floating in the Bow river on Saturday, a woman reported to police that she saw him jump from a bridge.

"He struggled for a time," Mrs. A. J. Newman, of the time found him, said.

Police stated no body had been found in the Bow river in a nearby canal an immediate search was authorized until a late hour.

Two Alberta Lads
Down On Sunday

Two drowning fatalities occurred at two Alberta points Sunday and the victims in each case were young boys. At Ennisville, 10 miles south of Edmonton, Bruce Brady, 16, lost his life in the Pembina river Sunday afternoon. He was swimming with four companions.

At Lacombe, Alberta, north of Drumheller, Douglas Newman, 21, was seized with a heart attack while wading in the Red Deer river and drowned before he could be rescued.

The Dive lad, who resides at Lake with his parents, was apparently seized with cramps and disappeared beneath the water. He did not reach him. The body was not recovered immediately.

Douglas Newman, son of Major and Mrs. J. F. Newman, of the Lacombe division, was bathing in the Red Deer river when he was seized with a heart attack.

Hundreds of Fires Reported in Peace River
Area by Bulletin Reporter—Makes Survey From Plane

A heavy curtain of smoke, more than a mile thick, hung over northern Alberta Monday as hundreds of forest fires swept unchecked through the timbered lands lying north of the Athabasca River. By noon today the heaviest pall of smoke in years had descended on Edmonton, obscuring visibility at close range.

Continued dry weather has left the forest and bush lands the tinder and there is hardly a township in the whole northern section of the province that has not at least one small fire sending up a cloud of smoke and a shower of ashes into the sky.

SWEETING EASTWARD

Fanned by winds which reached a velocity of 60 miles per hour in places on Sunday, the fires were sweeping eastward, sending thousands of acres of valuable timber, so that north of Lesser Slave Lake the entire country seemed to be one vast fire.

EYEWITNESS ACCOUNT

A Bulletin reporter, riding in the United Air Transport tri-motored Ford which was carrying the mail to Peace River and Grande Prairie, flew over one section of the north Sunday and was able to actually see the fires as they raged through the timber lands.

There were only a few small fires burning south of the Athabasca. Between the Athabasca River and Lesser Slave Lake the reporter counted nearly 30 small fires, burning in scattered areas, but between Lesser Slave Lake and Peace River the number was too great to count and some of the fires were burning along a 25-mile front.

Smoke from the fires was so bad that once the plane passed Great Bear Lake the ground was only visible in places and Pilot Kirk Kubick had to constantly check his position by compass and radio in order to keep on his course. It was necessary to maintain an altitude of 6,000 feet to stay above the smoke.

On the 100-mile trip between Peace River and Grande Prairie the entire country seemed to be on fire.

Immediate Cessation Of Hostilities Is Urged Today

PEIPING, China, June 20.—A statement issued by the Japanese government urging an immediate cessation of hostilities, today was viewed by many qualified observers as a step toward peace negotiations.

The statement bolstered the impression in some circles that the Japanese authorities wish to bring an end to military operations which are costing an estimated $500,000 a day and which have become increasingly difficult due to devastating floods in central China.

The statement, which apparently was inspired by Japanese officials, emphasized the horrors of war and called upon the Chinese leaders to show "common sense" and admit their defeat. It assured them they would be "pardoned" by posterity if they made this "bold gesture."

Vancouver Has Hectic Day
As Early Sunday Riot Is Followed By Mass Demonstrations

VANCOUVER, June 20.—Fifty thousand dollars worth of plate glass windows were broken in downtown business houses as the unemployed fled from the post office which they occupied for a week to work progress.

No action was taken by city police who were patrolling near the building and the crowd gradually broke up after Harold Whitt, Co-ordinator of the British Columbia member of the legislature for Vancouver East, and R. W. Campbell, the industry head for the Relief Project Workers Union, pleaded for order.

CROWDS SPREAD

The thousands of sympathizers had originally gathered at the dock last night to greet the unemployed who were being released from the Victoria-bound boat sailed with the jobs delegation. Then they spread to the streets and the building which houses the central office of the unemployed.

Traffic in the vicinity was tied up.

PREMIER SAYS

Aberhart Protests Disallowance and Closing Of Bank Branches

CALGARY, June 20.—"The money barons of eastern Canada have no right to ask the federal government to close down the banks on a platter," declared Hon. William Aberhart, premier of Alberta, when he spoke at the Wilfrid Laurier Institute last night.

Premier Aberhart protested disallowance and the closing of certain bank branches in the province. He suggested that the government, controlled by the Alberta government, together with "a complete investigation" be suggested as a solution of the banking problem by the premier.

AS MASTERS SAY

"We cannot be too hard on either the British or the Canadian," he said. "They have to do what they can. The premier declared the federal government has no right to interfere with the Alberta government and Alberta legislature unless it is a matter of national importance."

"I maintain they have no right to interfere."

Week-End Mishaps
Take 22 In Death

By the Canadian Press
Twenty-two persons met accidental deaths, five when an automobile plunged into a water-filled ditch, six when a truck overturned, and five when a car was crushed by a falling tree.

Eleven persons drowned, seven persons were killed in motor crashes and four died violently elsewhere. The list threatened to grow as others lay maimed in hospitals.

Most tragic of all was the catastrophe that drowned five French-Canadian residents of Dover township, near Chatham, Ont.

Hiding home early Sunday from a visit with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Deane Charnon and their daughter, Mrs. Clement Martin, and Miss Deane Charnon and their daughter, Mrs. Charnon, were trapped when the car driven by Mrs. Charnon got out of control and toppled into a dredge cut beside a country road. Charnon managed to break a window and crawl to safety but the other five were dead when the car was hauled out of the water.

Newman, 21, was seized in a surprise attack on the swimming pool.

Toronto Barrister President Social Credit Association of Ontario

CHIEF OF CAMPAIGN FOR STEVENS

Premier Aberhart of Alberta is Named Honorary President

By WILLIAM H. HOGG
Canadian Press Staff Writer
ST. THOMAS, Ont., June 20.—A 45-year-old Toronto barrister, Major J. C. MacKinnon, is the new leader of the Social Credit Association of Ontario. He was elected head of the newly-formed organization at its first annual congress here Saturday.

A graduate of Osgoode Hall law school, the major has served overseas with the Royal Field Artillery. He has been a student of monetary systems and was active in the last Dominion election campaign on behalf of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Reconstruction party. He is married and has one daughter.

U.S. DELEGATION
Major MacKinnon was elected to the presidency of the association by 24 votes to 11 over Lloyd Jagger, Toronto railway employee, who had acted as provisional president. In addition to the 27 delegates from Ontario, the congress was attended by representatives of the Quebec association from Montreal and a delegation from the United States.

Charles Keeping, St. Thomas, organizer of the Ontario party, was chosen first vice-president; Lloyd Jagger, second vice-president; and A. Desnoes of Ottawa, third vice-president. Mrs. Beulah Delvin Greig, Ottawa, was runner-up in the voting.

Premier Aberhart of Alberta named honorary president of the Social Credit Association and John H. Blackmore, party leader in the House of Commons, honorary vice-president. The group was born out over Ottawa and Winnipeg as site for next year's congress.

The Ontario association went on record as approving the formation of a Social Credit Association of Eastern Canada that is already underway. This would put Social Credit on a Dominion-wide basis as organization of the Western Canada Social Credit Association, was recently completed.

RETAIN NAME
The delegates voted to retain the present name of the Ontario body instead of calling it the Social Credit and Money Reform Party of Canada as proposed by Major MacKinnon to appear in the program.

Without discussion, the congress decided three constituencies that would have given rank and file members a measure of control over their elected representatives in parliament or the Ontario legislature. Mrs. Kennedy, member of the House of Commons for Edmonton East, said that such a measure would be a step toward the elimination of the party system.

One of the delegates would have been given the right to submit draft bills which if passed by the association would automatically become law.

RECALL PETITION
The third clause gave members the right to circulate a petition for recall of any elected officer or legislator. The petition would be demanded if the petitioners were signed by 10 per cent of the membership.

As a gesture of French-speaking members in eastern Canada, the association decided that either its constitution or treasury receipts later should be bilingual.

During the congress it was stressed that the task ahead of Social Credit in Ontario was one of education, rather than immediate political action. Groups are being formed throughout the province to study the theories laid down by Major Douglas, the British founder, and the Premier Aberhart of Alberta have his policies.

Annual meetings of riding, district and the provincial associations will be held between Sept. 1 and Oct. 31 each year. Provincial conventions will be held yearly to elect upon leadership and determine policy. Party candidates will be selected at delegate conventions of four members from each sub-area.

Mayor Ernest Duckworth welcomed the delegates at the opening session, while brief addresses were given by Sir Gordon Murray, Toronto, B. Burgess, St. Thomas, and J. W. Currie, president of St. Thomas branch.

It is estimated that airplanes are more than a quarter of a million dollars in the Belgian Congo annually.

Baldwin Appeals Youth Hold True to Democracy
MALVERN, Eng., June 20.—An appeal to the youth to hold true to democracy in spite of the appeal of new systems was made in an address at Malvern College Saturday by Sir Baldwin.

"There are people in this country," the former prime minister said, "who feel that they are at times because of the enthusiasm that they are can be generating a system other than our own."

PERTINACITY IS BIGGEST NEED MA TIXING SAYS

People Of Alberta Must Stick To Finish, Minister Exhorts

Majority of Alberta citizens are not lacking in pertinacity—the quality which impels the individual to persistency—Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, declared in an address before the Edmonton Prothetic Blind Conference on Sunday.

Taking the word "pertinacity" as his subject, the minister stressed that this quality enabled persons to persevere in the face of opposition or discouragement.

The minister related how, in reply to a man who had said that he would never accomplish his objective of permanent economic security, he said: "It's the people's objective that matters, not mine, but if the vast majority of our people are determined to attack the objective of security and freedom, why should they not succeed?"

"Surely if democracy means anything it must assure a recognition of the will of the majority."

WOULD NOT STRUT
The man had replied that this might be true but they never would attain it because of the simple reason that they would not stick to it. This was why the minister was emphasizing the pertinacity of the people.

Mr. Manning then quoted his friend and said: "The people grow weary and discouraged under the long-drawn-out struggle which will begin to break down their will and bring them to their knees. I tell you the common people will not get weary and discouraged. They will be fighting for their rights and they will win."

Commenting on this, Mr. Manning said: "I am sure that you and I must face the question, 'What is the pertinacity of the people?' It is true that nothing can be done for the common people because they lack the necessary pertinacity to remain in the fight until the objective is reached, irrespective of the difficulties encountered, along the way."

CONTINUE FOREVER
The minister said that the people must make up their minds to continue forever as the more and more they are faced with financial difficulties and their political enemies. But he said that the people will have no one to blame but themselves. It is in their power to make the fight until the objective is reached, irrespective of the difficulties encountered, along the way."

Public Works, Housing and Farm Programs Will Be Promoted

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Five of the Administration's leading spending agencies set out today to explain why they believe the new $2,713,000,000 spending program will put United States business back on its feet.

Harry I. Hopkins, the works program administrator, said his agency would spend $1,420,000,000 of federal money during the next eight months. He estimated that such spending would add to that figure $400,000,000.

W.P.A. workers will get $1,225,000,000 in pay, he said, then reauthorized that money will flow into general trade channels in this way: $215,000,000 for rent; $220,000,000 for housing operation; the rest for doctors' bills, transportation and other similar details.

REVIVAL OF BUYING
Agriculture Secretary, Wallace, said the farm sold by Congress should "help bring recovery by encouraging farmers to buy more goods from other farmers and city workers."

The United States housing administrator, Nathan Straus, whose funds were increased to a total of $500,000,000, said the spending program will add a large field of work for the unemployed.

"Slum dwellers will benefit by being given an opportunity to buy new and better lives," he said. "Wage earners will benefit by being called back to productive jobs in the construction of new public works. Taxpayers will benefit by the reduction in expenditures of local governments when they tear down old slums and mean less disease, less juvenile delinquency, less crime and reduced expense for hospitals, police, prisons, reformatories and jails."

BILLION IN INDUSTRY
Howard G. Gray, chief administrator of public works estimated his unit would put $1,000,000,000 into industry and the army and navy. Of every public works dollar, he said 30 cents would go to building materials behind the line.

The war department, through Brigadier General Kingman, said the army would spend $1,000,000,000 in the construction of new public works. The army would spend $1,000,000,000 in the construction of new public works. The army would spend $1,000,000,000 in the construction of new public works.

Action Suspended

Alberta, it is explained, will not attempt lone-handed to upset the disallowance power of the Dominion, but will wait to see what the other provinces do about it.

Aside from Premier Duplessis and Premier Heburn, whose future course is not to be gauged by any known law of probabilities, the likelihood is that the other provinces will do just nothing, and that the last has been heard of provincial claims to sovereignty until the Rowell Commission has reported and conferences are called preparatory to revising the constitution.

Then, no doubt, plenty will be heard on the subject. Meantime a stand-pat attitude is preferable; for any decision made by the Privy Council might be effective only until the revision of the B. N. A. Act is completed.

Whether the disallowance question has been threshed out in the revision conferences, it should be submitted to the voters if the majority of provincial representatives desire a change. If the Dominion is to be chopped up into sovereign states, that should only be done with the direct approval of the electors, declared through a plebiscite. If the majority of the provinces do not desire such change, there would be no occasion to trouble the voters for a direct expression of their opinion.

The Budget

Mr. Dunning's address on the budget will not rank with those few creative utterances that have shaped the financial history of Canada. He apparently covered no such distinction. For the most part, the finance minister adhered closely to the details of his financial statement, avoiding excursions of theory as carefully as he shunned any new experiment in financial reform. Perhaps that is why the most spectacular feature of the budget concerned something Mr. Dunning did not do. He did not increase any taxes. To have been able to submit such an encouraging review of the nation's estate, despite years of continued adversity and stress, forms the most eloquent tribute to his vigilant supervision of Canada's finances.

Mr. Dunning and Reform

But Mr. Dunning was so eager to be known as a "sound" finance minister, that he somewhat overplayed the part. He used the language of satire in lavish measure when dealing with the urgent need of monetary reform. The accent of scorn sounded through passages, ridiculing proposals for currency changes as the advocacy of "hoary fallacies". It is really too late for his conduct refutes his own precepts.

Mr. Dunning is not a "sound money" man, even though he talks very much like one. That fossil theory of money which has plagued Canada for almost a decade is composed of a reverence for limited credits, high interest rates, and a willingness to pile up debts. Its trained exponents, like Mr. Arthur Meighen, with more truth than tact admit that they would welcome as a blessing constant increases in the interest rate. Mr. Dunning is guilty of no such gibberish.

Unlike the Conservative leader of the Senate, the finance minister knows the toll exacted by interest and regards as one of his supreme achievements the fact that carrying charges on debt "have been brought down to a level comparable with those paid by the oldest and wealthiest countries of the world." Since 1935, and during Mr. Dunning's tenure of office, there has occurred a reduction of more than $350,000,000 in Canadian bank deposits or Canadian credit. A growth of $68,000,000 in the note circulation of the Bank of Canada has taken place. Its investments increased by $36,000,000, and the revaluation of gold in July, 1935, was responsible for a further increase of $74,000,000. The record shows that Mr. Dunning's deeds, if not his words, do not limit him to inflexible enemies of monetary reform like Mr. Bennett, Mr. Cahan or Mr. Meighen. As the finance minister himself candidly confesses, he is an "easy money" man.

Why The Change?

Even friends cannot hide their chagrin at the tone in which Mr. Dunning rebutted seekers after an easing of debts and interest. They were hopeful that he would speed up the pace of credit expansion and monetary reform, in response to admitted and imperious national need. Instead, he has placed the accent on tradition, on a tender avoidance of largely imaginary extremes. He may soon learn that denouncing the bogey of inflation is not the same as granting Canada the boon of currency reform.

On March 8, in the House of Commons, Mr. Dunning spoke on this same subject with more vigor and more vision. "This is a record," he said, "of which we may well be proud. It is the story of the carrying out of an easy money policy demanded by the public good. It is a story of efficient administration characterized by a full mastery by the management of the Bank of Canada of complicated monetary technique and by a thorough grasp of sound objectives for the Canadian people as a whole."

"Some apparently think that it has not been pushed fast and far enough; there are others who fear the reverse may be the case. The latter in my opinion, are too much bound down by what they regard as orthodox tradition, and too little conscious of the pressures which have been crushing so many important parts of our economy. The super-expansionists, on the other hand, are too little aware of the complicated forces with which they are dealing, too inclined to oversimplify the problem, too likely to the probable repetition of the evils of such a hectic inflationary boom as has caused much of the misery from which we have been suffering since 1929. In this, as in so many other cases, wisdom is likely to be found in the middle course."

Quite true. The criticism of Mr. Dunning is that in his budget he seemed to veer rather sharply towards the right.

Currency Reform Imperative

Has Mr. Dunning pondered the moral arising from his tale of growing trade, low interest refunding triumphs, limited extension of credits and so on? There are still 450,000 unemployed in Canada. Adversity still grips the Dominion. The western provinces are still entangled in a maze of intricate and ruinous difficulties. The "normal" policy of defeating poverty and spreading prosperity has been tried and has achieved its degree of success. The problem remains. A new attack upon it has to be made. If Mr. Dunning will dare believe that the right is always the expedient, and that on this issue courage is another name for wisdom, he will speedily give new life and hope to Canada by embracing a policy of constructive and adventurous currency reform. Canada has achieved its destiny.

After China, What?

Germany has annexed Austria. From the Baltic to the Adriatic they now cry in frenzied passion "Heil Hitler." When next? If Duce is now the head of an empire and he dreams visions of the glory of ancient Rome. Spain will soon be a complete Fascist state. All that is lacking now is a Japanese victory in China. That would be the signal for real action by the dictators. Fortunately, China by her own determined efforts has prevented the fulfillment of that aim so far. Far from being crushed and beaten, China's spirit burns more luminously than ever. Her will to remain as strong as it ever was, and she will maintain the relations and make any further sacrifice required of her. In return China asks, and the democracies must give her, every assistance to continue the struggle until victory has been achieved. British Overseas Dying Out?

While the birth rates of Britain and her Dominions have fallen all round in the last half-century, it is notable that South Africa and Canada are more fertile than the almost purely British Dominions of Australia and New Zealand. In the French-Canadian and the Boers, who are usually the most prolific of the peoples of both these Dominions are dying out, and reproduction rates being far below replacement rate. They must either attract white immigrants or perish as white races in the past have done. From the Mother Country, they will quickly her decline. In Canada and South Africa the failure of British fertility was in three parts: Britain, France and a British view. In the Union a handful of whites is associated with nearly 6,000,000 natives and in the other colored people. The Boers, many of whom have German blood are maintaining their fertility, while the British, as elsewhere, are in virtual decline. Europe, the source of the white man, many nations, but the ten most populous nations—Russia, Germany, Britain, Italy, France, Poland, Spain, Roumania, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia—account for 44,740,000 of them. Of these ten populous European nations, six have birth rates above replacement rate. Germany has a fine recovery rate in three parts: Britain, France and Czechoslovakia, are in serious decline—Sir Leo Chinn, M.P., in The Nineteenth Century (London).

Heartening Railway Message

It was a heartening and healthy statement that President S. J. Hufferford of the Canadian National Railway made in Ottawa a few days ago.

Mr. Hufferford declared his belief that public service must come before private profit. He said that the railway industry must be run so that branch lines must not be torn up for the sole reason that they do not pay.

He repudiated the proposal of Sir Edward Beatty to shrink the railway structure in Canada to a point where $75,000,000 could be saved and where 5,000 miles of line could be abandoned out of the 45,000 miles of Canada's railway system.

It is for railway experts, and not for a newspaper, to say how reasonable and sound this is, and to decide on the technical possibilities in this argument between two railway leaders.

But the thing that strikes the public is the sharp contrast between the two views. The Canadian Pacific and Canadian National presidents.

Sir Edward Beatty looks on a railway system as a machine that must be restricted or expanded according to the requirements of the people who use it.

Mr. Hufferford looks on it as a composite system of men and machinery that must be made to function according to the needs of the people who use it.

Both men are doubtless equally sincere. But the wholesome and constructive view of Mr. Hufferford commends itself to the public.

There has been too much defeatism and frustration in the railway industry. The public has the right to demand a more positive attitude in the soundness of Canada's future is a tonic that should do everybody good—Vancouver Sun.

Unification of Assets

The people of Canada invested large capital sums in the Canadian National, but unification will not bring it back to the unification point. They have to do with the present tangible assets of that road, not its liabilities. These tangible assets produce an operating surplus of less than one year, a year of capital failure, that operating surplus was $1,607,750.

The road is not everything, but it makes a great difference in the fortunes of the railway. The fact that last year the West produced the poorest crop in nearly twenty years gave encouragement to this new campaign for amalgamation.

With the poor crop, the gross earnings of the railways last year were $148,000,000, while in 1928, with the record crop of $66,000,000, the gross earnings of all Canada, the gross earnings of the railways were $148,000,000.

There are many indications that this will be a good year, although of course it is a good maxim not to count the bushels before they are threshed. The amalgamation movement to make progress before the new crop is gathered.

The road crop or had, the people of Canada would still be holding the bag with the capital account, and on this they will continue to pay interest on the $1,600,000,000 of capital account.

"Canadian National" but absorbed into the general debt, as has happened to the public expense—situation also high, on behalf of the Canadian Pacific.

The people of Canada have spent large sums on roads, on harbors, and on railways and other transportation services, which were considered justifiable in the building of Canada. But of the same spent on the railways the money paid on behalf of the publicly owned road was charged to capital account and carried on year

Your Health

By DR. FRANK MCGOW

The word epilepsy comes from the Greek meaning seizure, and the term usually refers to falling fits which may be called seizures or convulsions. There are three principal forms of the disease. The most severe type is Grand Mal and during the seizure the patient may fall to the floor, the muscles jerking wildly, with frothing at the mouth and unconsciousness. The average length of time one of these seizures will continue is ten minutes.

The second type of epilepsy is much milder and is called Petit Mal. This usually consists of a temporary loss of action by the convulsions. The patient may stare straight ahead for him for a few seconds, forget what he is doing, or have whatever he has in his hand drop.

The third type of epilepsy is called Nocturnal epilepsy, and all of the seizures occur at night. A patient may have such attacks for years before he discovers from his bitter tongue and blood-stained pillow that he has them. Occasionally a patient is found who will have a mixture of several types of epilepsy.

Most cases develop before the age of 15 in boys and 18 in girls. Comparatively few cases develop in later years, and if you have escaped epilepsy up to the age of 20, you will probably never develop this disorder. There is one exception to this and that is the type of epilepsy following injury to the head, which may develop at any time, as a result of the frequent automobile accidents which bring about severe head injuries, may expect more of these cases coming on in later years of Canada and America.

Generally the sufferer from epilepsy has no way of telling when he will have another seizure. The most cases, the seizures occur at regular intervals. The fits may occur only a few times in many years, or they may return twice a month or often. Many men of genius, such as Napoleon and Caesar, are said to have been epileptics.

Many people become greatly alarmed on observing an epileptic seizure, and they do not realize that very little treatment may be given for a falling fit of the Grand Mal type. Since the patient is unconscious, and he is given breathing space, and place some soft objects between the teeth to prevent biting of the tongue or inner cheek. A clean handkerchief is usually the most convenient, and it is necessary to use care in inserting it, to avoid injury to the gums. The bystander does not need to try to restrain the patient, as it is usually necessary to use force to restrain the patient. After the attack, the patient should be put in a supine position, and there is nothing the layman can do to arouse the patient quickly. After the attack, the patient should be put in a supine position, and there is nothing the layman can do to arouse the patient quickly.

Many people neglect treatment of epilepsy because of the mistaken idea that it does not yield to treatment. This is the worst attitude, as a certain proportion of the patients may be greatly helped. I have known of many recoveries, even in severe cases, when the patient ceased corrective treatment.

With the exception of those cases due to accident or disease of the brain, most cases are due to a definite toxin from intestinal putrefaction. The only important cause of epilepsy I have ever found is this poisoning from the intestine. The patient must be treated as a case of chronic poisoning, and the use of eliminative measures such as fasting, dieting, the enema, and manipulative treatment given to the intestines.

The following article will discuss the Treatment of Epilepsy.

Questions And Answers

QUESTION: C. H. L. inquires: "Why is it I am so susceptible to headaches? I get them mostly when I am out in the sun or if I go to a movie. When having a headache I feel sick at my stomach. But if I rest for an hour or two the pain disappears. Had the eyes examined and they are all right."

ANSWER: "The symptoms all suggest that the headaches are due to eyestrain, but inasmuch as the eyes are in good condition, it is possible they are due to a definite toxin from intestinal putrefaction, or a digestive disturbance. Without examining you, it is difficult to say what is the cause in your case. I would suggest that if they continue, you should have a complete physical examination to find the cause of both the headache and the nausea."

QUESTION: "Constant Reader" asks: "Will you please give me a complete home treatment which will positively cure hemorrhoids without surgery?"

ANSWER: The general treatment I advise for hemorrhoids is outlined in my article along this line. As the hemorrhoids suggest a long article, I suggest you send for and read the article, which is two pages in length and will be mailed to any reader desiring it, who sends me a request to me in care of this newspaper and encloses a stamped, self-addressed, large envelope, a name of the milder case, home treatment and the relief of constipation will correct the hemorrhoids in severe cases, operative treatment or injection treatment is required.

Has any one ever made an attempt to calculate the Canadian Pacific account similarly at the end of the year? The Canadian National put into the railway the sum of $87,791,435. Land grants by the Dominion to the C.P.R. totalled 20,000,000 acres. Of these acres, 8,800,000 were returned to Canada on payment of $10,109,521. From the people, through the C.P.R., the received another 10,000,000 acres in the history of the country.

Would make a substantial sum, even in the Roosevelt series. In a recent annual report of the C.P.R., the sum of $104,000,000 is mentioned as having been received from the sale of lands, while elsewhere it is stated that the C.P.R. still owes $4,767,000 on its land account, the company paying a value of more than fifty million dollars.

No one would say now that, in our young and sparsely settled country, the Canadian Pacific should have been added to the public account for people to be misled by a mere book-keeping system into believing that only the Canadian National drew heavily from the public purse—Munton Transcriber.

Appreciation

Editor, Bulletin: At a meeting of the Edmonton Kiwanis Club, the following resolution was passed unanimously, the secretary being instructed to forward a copy to the Edmonton Bulletin:

"Whereas, after eight years of such service to the members of this society recovery has been taken by the federal government by the use of the powers of the finance department and the central bank to provide low interest money for home-building and municipal self-liquidating projects; and

Whereas, the Edmonton Bulletin has unflinchingly stood for this action and policy as the first essential to the recovery of the unemployed recipients and the ultimate restoration of conditions;

Resolved, that the members of this club forward this resolution of appreciation of the policy and editorial of the Bulletin, which has so largely contributed to the forward steps taken by the federal government."

Wendy Willie—What did you do with it?

Tim—Threw it away. It wasn't worth a cent.

P. C.—How did you come to knock this pedestrian on the head?

Motorist—I didn't. I stopped to get him across, and he was so surprised that he fell on his head.

She—I've been through every drawer and can't find my bathing outfit.

He—Maybe a moth has eaten it, dear.

After a church conference the hostess met an old talker about the village of the American church. "I had two loud preachers," he said.

"You mean loud preachers. Lo-quietly, these things that are not everything."

"That's right, I had two of them." "Communicating to me such intelligence as he had been able to collect of the intention of the pirates now infesting both frontiers. The village of the American church was mentioned, but having been down to the neighbourhood of Sacramento, California, etc., the A.D.C. assured me the intelligence was correct. Some time after the conference of Bill Johnson, he also informed me that General McArthur had been in the neighbourhood and that General Brady was now on his return to Detroit where he was in agitation against our frontier."

There is little doubt that the village of the American church is mentioned on the frontier did much to prevent such an invasion and that largely through the kindly intentions the raid was prevented.

It was on this date that the fight took place between the invaders and the defenders at St. Mary's. Four of the latter were killed and the invaders were repulsed. The invaders were the Indians who were attacking the settlers. The settlers were the Americans who were defending the frontier.

It was a short campaign. Within a month the border was again in the hands of the Americans. The invaders were repulsed and the settlers were safe.

With Morgan setting the pace, the Cardinals played one of their best games in several weeks. The Cards had strength in every department, while Belmonta erred often and gifted the Cards easy unearned runs in committing seven errors. The Cardinals had two errors, both coming in the last innings of the game.

Ernie Harney, Belmont manager, crashed both the single base knock which completely ruined Morgan's possible shutout. Harney's single sent Eric Dolan across the plate with Belmont's lone tally in the ninth inning.

Morgan hurled winning ball all the way. For the first eight innings he allowed only three scattered hits, and Stewart also netted a brace of hits.

single, one in each of the first and third innings. He also had a double in the sixth frame. Belmonte got three last two hits in a weakly attempted last-stand rally.

On the other hand Cardinal catcher went after two Belmont pitchers he combined 12-hit in attack. Cards drove Eddie Schaeflin to the shoopers after the fifth inning by hitting him for nine hits and three runs. Cards' offense was their battering as Helley was rushed into the game. Helley gave up only three hits, but his support was only consistent clutter. He got two hits in the first and a hitting and home run in the eighth.

Crumbling China—Inexorable Jap War Machine Blasts Pattern of Destruction

As Japanese Took Vital Hsuehchow

Raining Death At China's Army

Watching Over the Dregs of War

Claiming the Spoils of Victory

Through an archway in the once impregnable walls of China's Hsuehchow, a Japanese infantry corps is pictured marching. The advance of the Japanese has thrown all of China into a state of fear and confusion. Places once considered remote from the front are hearing the not-infrequent roar of war. Cannon on the coast, lies in ruins after a disastrous series of air raids. Half of Canton's population of 1,000,000 has fled before the bombers.

United States Fighters From Spain Sick of It

NEW YORK, June 20.—Six United States veterans of the Spanish government army described by the state department representative as "discouraged and sick and weary of hardship" arrived Saturday on the liner President Roosevelt.

Randolph Williams, of Tacoma, Wash., and Clifford Chapin, Aberdeen, Wash., who went to Spain a year ago with their passage paid by the friends of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, returned as

From machine gun nests like that pictured above, a steady rain of fire falls upon the Chinese army. The Japanese gunners are shown as they directed an attack on the Chinese military flank near Weihsienhu. Sections of shaking, crumbling walls and piles of rubble are used to shield the nest from the eye of the opponent's lookout. Because of the constant fire which it pours forth, the machine gun nest is one of the most difficult military weapons to overcome.

At the quiet on the Tancheng front. The Japanese army has moved on to the west, leaving other devastation and ruin in its wake. High on the battlements above the city, troops stand guard to prevent any aftermath uprising within the territory. But their guns are smoking hot no longer, for below a bewildered populace is attempting to beguile the wounds of battle. The battered and scarred roof of Tancheng's houses may be seen in the background.

While Japanese infantrymen line the side of the narrow road in a protective fence, a Japanese tank is pictured above as it enters the shell-shattered gate of Mongchen in Anhui province. The ancient Chinese pagoda on the gate's top has succumbed to modern death-dealing machines. Here is typified the spoils of victory. The Chinese defenders routed after a fierce battle, the victorious soldiers occupy the captured city to plunder and pillage in reward for their triumph.

ELEVEN DIE IN SCATTERED AIR CRASHES

Four Killed As Private Plane Dives In Heavy Rain

Four men were killed when their private plane crashed near Louisa, Miss., in a heavy rain.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Eleven persons died in half a dozen widely separated airplane crashes in the United States during the week-end and an intercontinental air liner with a crew of four was reported missing in South America.

Musical Shepherd Crook Re-Unites Uncle, Nephew

MONTREAL, June 20.—Shepherd's crook, it seems, have vastly greater possibilities in these modern days than when coaxing the legs of errant sheep was their sole function in the rustic scene.

Nowadays, the crooks can even produce music—and bring a misleading relative back into the family fold.

Inventor of the "musical crook" at his native Hingham, Sussex, Eng., home, Alfred Jennings wondered about the nephew who emigrated to Canada in 1897 and whom he had not seen nor heard from since.

Out in Upper Lynn, B.C., Murray Marshall often thought of the uncle he had never met and had given him the money to get back to Canada.

But then news of Jennings' curious invention — the crooks that when hung in a certain manner and struck with a particular instrument, emitted musical sounds — led to the papers and Marshall heard about it. A speedy exchange of letters followed and the inventor was soon on his way to visit Marshall.

Jennings, roly-poly and ruddy, arrived here Sunday aboard the liner Arafura, but had nothing to say about himself or his invention. He refused to divulge whether he had sought the crooks long to show the interested nephew.

WALL STREET COMMENTATOR LAUDS CANADA

Washington Might Take Lesson From Ottawa, Says Newspaper

NEW YORK, June 20.—Canada seems to be getting along a lot better than the United States, economically, despite the after-effects of what used to be considered financial sanity," the New York Herald Tribune, Republican, said in its Wall Street comment column Saturday in discussing the Canadian budget.

"Wall Street observers hoped that Washington would take a good look at the Canadian budgetary procedure," the newspaper continued. "Finance Minister Charles Dunning reported a deficit of $14,000,000 for the last Canadian fiscal year, which simply does not count as a deficit in a country used to $10,000,000 and $4,000,000 annual deficits.

"The trade of our northern neighbor was hit by the collapse here, but it seems that the business index now is advancing, while foreign trade is doing very well.

"Pump priming expenditures will be avoided by Canada, Mr. Dunning said, because they dry up the spring of private initiative." The suggestion was made in the financial district that some of our Washington administrators might well go to school at Ottawa for a while.

Last of China's Foreign Air Fighters Returns

HALIFAX, June 20.—Last of the foreign air fighters in Madame Chiang Kai-Shek's air force, Captain Tommy Allen, 23-year-old parachute jumper and stunt pilot, arrived in Halifax Sunday on route to his home in New York. He cracked up at Hanau.

The youthful aviator's card lists him as a member of the Chinese military air force, Wang Kai Tsun aerodrome, Hanau, China. He was member of the famous international 14th squadron of the Chinese air force.

Allen was in hospital with an injured knee when the unit disbanded recently.

"Chinese aviators," Captain Allen said, "are better pilots than the Japanese, when their short training is taken into consideration. The Japs are 'book fliers'—that is they are good in formation flight but as marksmen they are definitely far from being good."

According to Allen the only foreigners now with the Chinese air force are instructors.

JEWS IN PANIC AS TERRORISM FILLS GERMANY

BERLIN, June 20.—Sunday in Germany gave pause to a rising wave of anti-Semitism marked last week by looting and defacement of business places in the capital, arrest of an estimated 2,000 non-Aryans here and elsewhere, and a Gestapo (secret police) order for a nationwide anti-Semitic "check up."

Paint-daubing squads left their handiwork on display for Sunday stragglers along the broad west-end thoroughfares. Kerfuffletrading, where scores of street shops were smashed.

Unrestrained and unbridled, the groups of painters worked their way along the street between 9:30 last night and 12:30 a.m. Sunday, emblazoning shop windows, stores of the word "Jude" (Jew) and the six-pointed star of Judaism.

Tears were in panic. Foreign consulates were besieged by men and women seeking permission to go to other countries. In Würzburg, as Martin Luther's home, Jews had difficulty getting out, because Gentiles were afraid to sell it to them.

JOHN ROOSEVELT TAKES BRIDE TO NEW BRUNSWICK

WELCHPOOL, N.B., June 20.—John Roosevelt and his bride reached Campbell Island early last night and will spend a few days of their honeymoon at President Franklin Roosevelt's summer cottage before returning to Quebec.

The youngest son of the President and the former Anne Lindsay Clark were married Saturday night Sunday left the Rye Beach, N.H., summer home of Dr. Harvey Cushing, Boston surgeon and father of Mrs. John Roosevelt.

GUESTS FLEE EARLY FIRE IN NELSON HOTEL

NELSON, B.C., June 20.—Stratford hotel, operated by the Canadian Pacific Railway many years ago when the Kettle Valley line was built, was destroyed by fire early Sunday, but 60 persons in the building escaped safely.

Guests and permanent residents fled so quickly they left even personal effects in the blaze, which broke out in an attic and was far advanced before being noticed.

The hotel was operated by A. D. Papan. No estimate of damage was available immediately.

DAWSON CREEK LAUDS OTTAWA FOR AIR MAIL

Karlson to Kamotom Bulletin. DAWSON CREEK, B.C., June 20.—Showing their appreciation for the action of the postal authorities in routing the Vancouver-Yukon air mail via Fort St. John, the Dawson Creek board of trade in session Saturday wired their appreciation to the postmaster general at Ottawa. The establishment of this route will be of tremendous importance to the whole of Peace River country.

A resolution was also approved to be forwarded to the meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade of the Peace River country, meeting at Fairview, Alta., June 20, urging that body to approach the federal government with a view of having a national pact established covering as much territory as possible in the Mountain Peace area.

Good Hay Crop In Alberta Seen

CALGARY, June 20.—On the best hay crops in many years is expected in Alberta's hay belt from Calgary to Olds, local feed dealers report. Field men, they stated, were bringing in excellent reports of the crop, which was now from five to eight inches up.

"A good hay crop is certain," said one dealer.

Undoubtedly a good crop would cause a sharp drop in price, dealers said. Hay averages about $15 a ton in price.

"We'll be paying it for $12 a ton in July and $10 a ton in September," said a dealer.

Hero Of Yukon Mining Novel Dies In Alaska

VANCOUVER, June 20.—Word was received here Saturday of the death at Homer, Alaska, of Captain Robert D. "Burr" Adams, prominent character in the mining history of British Columbia and the Yukon. Adams joined the Yukon gold rush in 1898 and was one of the first to cross the Chilkoot pass. He gained fame when he broke the mining record from Nome to Fairbanks, Alaska and was said to have been the hero of Rex Beatty's book "The Spies". He became an army captain during the Great War.
